Champagne & Sparkling Wine

Champagne

White

Since its creation, Champagne DUVAL-LEROY has been located in Vertus, in the heart of “La Cote des Blancs”. Currently the House cultivates about 200 hectares, much of which is devoted to production of high quality Chardonnay grapes. The predominance of Chardonnay in the elaboration of the cuvees gives a finesse, lightness and elegance to DUVAL-LEROY champagnes. Headed by Carol DUVAL-LEROY since 1991, the company is one of the few remaining 100% family-owned Champagne firms and is ranked in the 15 top Champagne houses.

SAINT EMILION AND PUISSEGUIN SAINT EMILION

Clos Magne vineyard abutts to the famed Ch. Figeac and has been owned by the same family for 500 years. It is located on the Saint Emilion plateau between Pomerol and Saint Emilion, it is no surprise that the wine emulates qualities from both appellations. A blend of Merlot and Cabernet Franc on this sanguine red evokes red berries and black currants across a spicy cedar nose. Crushed forest fruit notes on the palate merge effortlessly with softened tannins.

In 2005, Château Soleil was acquired by a group of enthusiastic wine lovers including Didier Miquieu and Stephan von Neipperg, the owner of Château La Mondotte and Château Canon La Gaffelière, Premiers Grands Crus Classés B, in Saint-Emilion. These two men have worked hard, investing money and expertise to produce the best possible wine. Made primarily from young vines the second wine Promesse is produced with the same special care as the first wine, but is enjoyable sooner. Ageing in one year old oak barrels, it is fruity with an attractive, round structure and represents excellent value for money. 80% Merlot, 10% Cabernet Sauvignon, 10% Cabernet Franc. Wine Spectator 89/100

MEDOC - HAUT MEDOC

Château Haut Grignon is a tiny estate in Medoc that produces a limited amount of superb wine. This area is furthest north in the region and It's here we experience the marine influences at the mouth of Gironde river, with the terroir that is distinctly Bordeaux: gravely-clay limestone. This is an amazing wine from an amazing vintage. Coffee, black currants and violets on the nose, with soft, ripe tannins and mouth-filling black fruits. The finish lasts for seconds, enticing your tastebuds to take the next sip.

Tuscany

Since 1893 the Cecchi family & brand has been synonymous with viticulture, both in Italy and throughout the world. The history of the winery is a compelling story of a family, articulated by passion, dedication to the land and a brilliant entrepreneurial spirit. Using the strength gained from their experience of more than 100 years of love for the land, today the Cecchi family takes on the challenges of the future with that same enthusiasm.

Abruzzo/Puglia

Fantini by Farnese wines are a reflection of the colours of Abruzzo, painting wonderful landscapes of taste and living for the love of the endless vineyards protected by Mount Majella's motherly roundness. You can see them sliding down from the hills to the sea, seeking an optimum exposure and enjoying an excellent microclimate that the whole of Europe envies us. This is the reason why the fruits of this land grow so well and age even better.

Veneto

The history of Masi is the history of a family and its vineyards in Verona, part of the Veneto. The name itself derives from the Vaio dei Masi, the small valley purchased at the end of the XVIII century by the Boscaini family, still its owners today. Masi now has lands in the best terroir sites of the Venetian regions with vineyards and historic estates. Since 1973, Masi has collaborated with the Conti Serego Alighieri family, descendants of the poet Dante, on their estates in Valpolicella. More recently, a collaboration has been launched with the Conti Bossi Fedrigotti family, who have always made wine with passion and skill in Trentino. Both agreements are part of an ambitious project aiming to rediscover the lustre of the farming and winemaking traditions of the nobility from the Venetian area. Masi has a particular expertise in the Appassimento technique, which is traditionally used in the Venetian regions to concentrate aromas and tastes in a wine. The technique produces wines which are unique and majestic, like Amarone, which Masi makes in the widest and most expertly produced range available on the international market.
